Importance of Residentials

Going away for two nights is a big step, but it's really exciting and helpful for children. It helps them:

- Grow in confidence – trying new things.
- Make stronger friendships – working and playing together as a team.
- Learn life skills – like packing, keeping track of belongings and being independent.
- Have amazing experiences – outdoor activities and hands-on learning they'll never forget.
- Build resilience – overcoming challenges and realising, "I can do this!"

Children usually come back proud of themselves and excited to share their stories.
